6 The compound wall of the Cattle pound in question is said to have fallen down in the heavy rains of 1903. The then Amildar called upon the Ryots of the village to repair the pound, but as they refused to comply, the pound was allowed to fall into disuse. The President reports that the Shanbog of the village (Tadgol) has effected the needful repairs to the pound at his own cost, and requests that as the village is a big one sanction may be accorded for the opening of the pound in that village.

The vernacular papers on the subject ~~pass~~ show that it is intended to appoint the Shanbog of the village as the Pound keeper and that the Patel has agreed to this arrangement arrangement on the ground that he is not sufficiently literate. The attention of the President may, if approved, be drawn to section 6 of the Cattle Trespass Act, in accordance with which the heads of villages shall be Ex-officio keepers of village pounds.

2 Satisfactory explanation has not been given for closing the pound temporarily since 1903. If the Ryots refused to do the needful repairs to the pound, steps should have been taken to have the same done at Govt Cost.
